

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The establishment of this journal would have been impossible without financial support from “The New Europe”, a project aimed at supporting classical studies in Eastern Europe. We would like to express our sincerest gratitude to all foundations and institutions united in “The New Europe” project:

The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation

The Fritz Thyssen Foundation

The Swedish Council for Studies of Higher Education

The Ministry of Education and Science of the Netherlands

Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, Stanford

Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton

National Humanities Center, North Carolina

Netherlands Institute for Advanced Study, Wassenaar

Swedish Center for Advanced Study in the Social Sciences, Uppsala

Wissenschaftskolleg, Berlin.

We would like to thank Sergei Burjachko, the director of St Petersburg Classical High School, for his co-operation.

We are also grateful to Alice Harris, Almut Ullrich and Clint Walker for their very helpful assistance.
