

GUIDELINES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

The maximal length of a publication in one volume should not exceed 64 000 characters (with spaces). Publications exceeding this limit will be split into two and more parts and published in several volumes. Shorter publications are welcome.

Priority is given to publications with a clear argument based upon interpretation of primary sources as well as to publications of new materials.

Contributions are accepted in Russian, Latin, English, German, French, and Italian. Papers are accompanied by a Russian and an English summary and key words.

Contributions should be sent as a hard copy or as a file in Word and PDF format attached to an e-mail.

The editorial board accepts or declines a contribution taking into account the opinion of anonymous referees. Authors are informed of the decision on acceptance or rejection of the submission usually within two months.

Authors should send a copy of the final version of their paper in Word and PDF format per e-mail after acceptance has been communicated by the editors. English summary and 3 to 5 key words should be attached to the final version.

Please note that the rules for bibliographical references depend on the language of the paper.

For papers in Russian, see above.
